Tree Planting in Pennsylvania.

Water companies, owners of mining properties, and clubs of sportsmen in Pennsylvania planted more than 1,200,000 young forest trees on their holdings during the spring of 1922, according to an announcement made by Major R. Y. Stuart, the State's chief forester. During the last eight years the same groups have set out about 5,217,000 seedlings.

Last spring, the mining companies' plantings exceeded those of water companies and outing clubs by a wide margin. The former planted 800,000 young trees to provide a future timber supply for the operation of their mines. The water companies set out 320,000, and the clubs 86,470.

The largest individual planting in the spring of 1922 by a water company was made by the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, of Holtwood, which set out 70,000 trees. Ten thousand less were planted by the Williamsport Water Company. Four other companies set out more than 25,000 each.

Of the mining corporations, the Clearfield Bituminous Corporation led with 130,000. Nine other companies planted over 50,000 trees each.

Meanwhile Mr. McSparran is attending anniversaries and gatherings in his own and near by counties. There is no question about it that Democracy has a candidate who enjoys the highest respect and confidence of all who intimately know him.

CHEMICAL FIRE ENGINE

PLANS MATURED FOR RAISING MONEY FOR PURPOSE.

Fire Company Has Started Subscription with $635 and Balance Will be Quickly Raised.

The Gettysburg Fire Company have arrived at the conclusion that an automobile chemical fire engine is needed in this town, and the cost to secure the same will be about $3,000. The reasons for this need grows out of the experiences of the Fire Company in fighting fires. Chimney fires and the beginnings of fires are better handled with the chemical extinguishers than with the big engine. There is no waiting for correctness to pump a stream of water. The chemical extinguishers are ready when the fire is reached and can do their work while the big engine is being attached to water plug and hose laid. A few seconds or minutes at the start of a fire is a great advantage and may save the day from a big conflagration.

A chemical extinguisher would be ready for a second call if one should ever come when the big engine would be at work.

Our Fire Company has made a record for years for the zeal and devotion they have given the town in every emergency and their judgment for better fire protection should have the endorsement of all our citizens.

The proposition of the purchase of a chemical auto engine has been endorsed by the Town Council and Chamber of Commerce and the effort will be to raise the money without any resort to the tax moneys of the town.

The Fire Company has started the subscription list for the chemical engine with $635. The proceeds from their recent festival. It is likely the town will make a donation and also the county, but plans are being made for subscriptions from the citizens of the town. The Fire Company has named James B. Aumen and Donald C. Stallsmith as canvassers from the company. The Town Council has named Roy P. Funkhouser and J. E. Snyder for the Canvassing Committee, and the Chamber of Commerce has named John Brehm and J. L. Williams, Esq. This committee proposes at an early date to form plans for a complete canvass of the town for subscriptions.

The appeal is one that must go home to every citizen, the protection of his own home, his own business and his own town. The fire laddies will win out as they deserve.

Lincoln Way Hold-up.

On Thursday night, S. H. Horse, a traveling salesman from Frederick, was traveling in an auto and on reaching a point between New Oxford and Cross Keys was fired at by two colored men, two shots entering the door of the auto but did not strike the occupant. He returned the fire, but the end of the hold-up was that the colored men took the car and gun and $140 from the salesman. They did not get far with their plunder. Mr. Horse was able to get word by phone to officers. The automobile was found abandoned in Gettysburg on York street in front of Charles Miller's residence. County Detective Charles H. Wilson and Sheriff John W. Hartman traced the men westward on Lincoln Highway and caught them near Cashtown walking, and found in their clothes $124 of the money.

Buchanan Valley Carousel.

The old Jesuit Mission of Buchanan Valley, near Orrtanna, Adams county, is the only congregation in Pennsylvania that owns its own carousel. This merry-go-round, located within a stone's throw of the church, is used on Sunday afternoons and picnic days for the benefit of the children—and their elders who haven't allowed their hearts to grow old and their tummies queasy. It's an honest-to-goodness carousel, having seen real service with a carnival, now defunct. It has 9 tunes in its repertoire, the favorite being "Old Zip Coon." It carries quite a little zoo of its own, kangaroos, lions, panthers, besides the usual quota of spirited steeds. The boys vie with one another to mount the mules, for the lads claim they're the only donkeys that won't toss yer off. The girls prefer to play Mazeppa on the good-natured big dog.

IRON SPRINGS.

W. W. Deichman from Sagerstown, is spending some time with his son, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Deichman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, formerly of this place, now living at Hagerstown, Md., visited his mother, Mrs. Chas. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Reed, lately.

In conversation with our correspondent Mr. Reed contemplates buying a small farm near Hagerstown in the near future.

The ground has been measured and staked off for a new school house at Greenstone, Hamiltonban township.

THE RED MEN'S PARADE

THE MOST PICTURESQUE PARADE EVER HELD IN TOWN.

Eleven Bands and Brilliant Costumes Made a Combination that Attracted and Pleased.

The York-Adams Convention of the Independent Order of Red Men in Gettysburg on last Saturday, July 29th, surpassed all that had been predicted about it. The parade unquestionably was the most picturesque one the town had ever seen. The bright colors of the Indian costumes gave a brilliant effect to the marching columns, and there were more bands in line than had been promised. Ten had been counted upon but eleven came.

The fifteenth annual session of the organization was opened by Chairman C. D. Stallsmith. The invocation was given by Rev. Wm. Robinson. Attorney J. L. Williams, of Gettysburg, gave an enthusiastic address of welcome to the Red Men for their splendid turnout, to which the response was given by President Showalter. Past Great Sachems Norman Troxell and William Long, of Hanover, both delivered addresses upon the good of the order. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zinn sang a duet, which met with an appreciative applause. Rev. Harry Daniels after singing several selections, spoke upon the order.

The beautiful and impressive memorial services for the 30 dead brothers who passed away during the year was conducted by Charles Shirey, Edward Showalter, William Rhinehart, E. G. Woolery, George Latterman and Charles Stauffer.

At the afternoon session the following officers were elected: President, John McSherry, of Littlestown; Vice President, J. L. Gemmill, of York; Secretary, Edw. Showalter, of York; Treasurer, James M. Gross, of York; Trustee, Harvey A. Waugh, of Red Lion. These officers were duly installed according to the rites of the order by Past Grand Sachem Norman L. C. Troxell, of Allentown. Who was made a member of the convention.

The following committees were announced by President McSherry: Executive Committee, Charles Stauffer, George Shelly, W. L. Adair; State Order, J. L. Woolery, John Wolf, William Stair; Finance Committee, A. H. Himmeyer, H. E. Serf, George Latterman; Credential Committee, James A. Howett, Earl Fleming; Publicity Committee, Bert Schucker, J. L. Gemmill, George Sunday; Grievance Committee, Walter Myers, A. S. Kohler, Cletus Bowie; Memorial Committee, E. G. Woolery, Charles Stauffer, W. L. Adair; Auditing Committee, William Rhinehart, George D. Ehrhart, J. L. Gemmill.

The convention went on record as heartily favoring William Rhinehart as their choice for the post of Great Junior Sagamore of Pennsylvania. Adjournment of the convention to meet again the last Saturday in July, 1923, at Spring Grove, followed.

Prizes won were as follows: For largest number of men in line, York Haven, $15; for the tribe coming the longest distance with band, Stewartstown, $15; tribe making best appearance, Harka, of York, $10; tribe of largest number with band, Red Lion, $5; best appearance of Pocahontas Council, Hanover, $5; finest individual costume, Bruce Ilgenitz, of Katunkte tribe, York, $250; heaviest Indian, John Rider, East Berlin, $150; tallest Indian, George Stallsmith, York Springs, $150; shortest Indian, John Free, New Oxford, $150. Marching with the Red Men were a number of councils of Pocahontas, the women in picturesque Indian costume.

The parade was witnessed by crowds along the entire route. The oldest Red Man in line was Jacob A. Eckman, of Baltimore, who on Friday celebrated his 87th birthday. Mr. Eckman has been a Red Man for 57 years.

At the business session the following resolutions were adopted, the subject matter being of interest to all lodges, orders and clubs:

Whereas, First Deputy Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania has handed down an opinion that all County Clubs, Social Clubs, incorporated schools, all Lodges and Hunting Clubs, etc., are taxable by the State, except purely charitable and religious organizations.

Whereas, If such a tax is levied many organizations may be compelled to raise their dues which will create a hardship upon their members.

Resolved, That this body in convention assembled do enter their protest against said opinion.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to meet similar committees of other organizations in case that such a meeting might be called in our jurisdiction to take such action as may be fit and proper for the benefit of our membership. Be it further

Resolved, That the delegates of the various Tribes here represented return to their Tribes and have said Tribes to consider carefully this matter and if a call should be made for a committee meeting that they urge their Tribes to be represented.

—Mrs. Josie Culp and daughters Misses Helen and Margaret, Chambersburg street, are away on a vacation trip to Atlantic City and Bound Brook, N. J.

Auto Accident Ends Fatally.

John K. Leffler, of Pine Grove, Schuylkill county, received injuries about the head on Sunday afternoon when knocked down by a touring car on Little Round Top, which resulted in his death at the Annie M. Warner Hospital on Tuesday evening.

Roy C. Vaughn, a battlefield guide, was on the running board of the Maryland car striking Mr. Leffler, and states the car was descending Little Round Top to proceed to the Valley of Death and was moving at a very slow speed, not over seven miles an hour. Mr. Leffler had left his own car and was first seen when rounding a curve and he was twenty-five feet away and in act of crossing over the road from left to right in the path of the automobile. He was hit and thrown to roadway striking his head and concussion of the brain followed, resulting in death.

Coroner C. G. Crist held an inquest with jury composed of Paul Martin, Earl Deatrack, Dorsey Daugherty, Winfield G. Horner, Samuel Robinson and Thomas Rosensteel. After hearing the testimony of the witnesses and also Ferris Leffler, a son of the fatally injured man, a verdict was rendered exonerating the driver of the car striking the man.

Fourth of July Accidents.

The State Health Department had 202 calls for tetanus antitoxin because of July 4th accidents this year and this is more than they had in any one of the past five years. It is not strange that the largest number occurred in communities where "old-time" celebrations were the order of the day. Many calls were due not only to a greater number of accidents but because more people know the value of this treatment for preventing lockjaw. The state furnishes free, preventive doses—not the curative ones. It is not yet determined whether the enormous doses given after the disease has developed are of any large service, but it has been proven that the preventive dose at once, and repeated if the wound does not promptly heal, will surely prevent lockjaw. However, the only absolute safety lies in making July 4th accidents impossible by prohibiting the sale of dangerous fireworks. Pittsburgh alone had 15 cases, with 11 more in Allegheny county. Lock Haven had 25, Williamsport 5, Lancaster 9, Allentown 8, Pottstown 7, Easton 7, Scranton 11, Wilkes-Barre 10, Erie 5, New Castle 5, Westmoreland county 8. Contrasted with these are many communities, including Philadelphia, where the law was observed, and from which there were no calls for tetanus antitoxin because there were no accidents.

Resurface Carlisle Pike.

The Carlisle pike from Hanover to Cross Keys, two miles east of New Oxford, on the Lincoln Highway will be rebuilt this year by the State Highway Department. The work will begin at once and it is expected can be finished this fall. Auditor General Lewis took an interest in pushing this work and last week Assistant Highway Commissioner Geo. H. Biles decided after careful investigation of the physical conditions, that there is a very substantial foundation in the road, and in lieu of the water-bound macadam resurfacing originally contemplated it has been concluded to use the bituminous penetration type, which will give this community a good, first class highway superior to any of the surfacings on the Lincoln Highway in macadam roads. This type of improvement should meet the traffic demands on this highway, with reasonable maintenance for a considerable period of time.

Money in Politics.

Money in politics is the rot in our system of government. When it takes somebody's money to put over a campaign somebody is going to come back and get special privileges from his party by reason of the money spent. Somebody makes a big contribution and gets even with a big contract by which he can help himself to the people's money. Somebody makes a small contribution and is kept in a job or position that is more or less useless for the public. Money in politics is the rot from low places to high places in our system of government. To protect our Democracy from this rot of money, new law is needed to eliminate money from politics. The present corrupt practice act is a farce. It is possible a prohibitive law would not begin to reach the disease and would have to be accompanied with some constructive legislation as has been proposed in some of the States, for instance in Oregon it was proposed to cut out electioneering and substitute a circular issued to every voter containing the appeal and issue each candidate desired to have presented and limiting the number of pages of such circular according to the office, and the expense to the candidate to be a proportional part of the expense of the circular per page. It seems that some better system could be devised than the present one by which the rot of money could be eliminated from politics.

This point of view has been called out by the confession, as it might be called by Harry Baker, Republican State Chairman, in which he ridiculed the idea that $500,000 would be needed to finance the Pinchot campaign. Mr. Baker then submitted the following figures showing the amount raised by the Pennsylvania Republican State Committee in past campaigns.

When Sproul ran for Governor in 1918, the State Committee raised $257,078.85 and spent $242,268.04. In the Harding presidential campaign $201,603.51 was raised and $193,277.60 spent. In 1912, when Brumbaugh and Penrose were candidates for the Senate, the State organization collected $153,896 and spent $238,201, the deficit being made good later. Mr. Baker thought $250,000 would be enough this year.

Think of a quarter of a million being declared to be the need of a campaign for an office, the salary of which will be $18,000 for four years. An eighth of a million has already been spent by Pinchot for the nomination at the primary and now $250,000 must be spent for the election, or in other words five times the salary for four years must be spent in order that the Keystone State may have a Republican Governor. The mere statement of this fact and figures show its absurdity. It is not a matter that admits of argument. The need of the hour is for a statesman with the skill of a surgeon, who can cut out from the body politic this corrupting rot of money.

Pa. House Cleaning Needed.

Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis has been conducting public hearings in verifying the findings of the State Treasury under Former Treasurer Kephart. The evidence of the way things have been run the following is a sample.

Harry K. Berlin, Connellsville, who was listed as an extra clerk in the Treasury in 1910, and recorded as paid $90 for such services, denied he was in the employ of Pennsylvania, but that he acted as messenger for Kephart for many years, receiving payment for each service.

Lucius Showers, Kephart's handy man in Connellsville, said he was paid as a night watchman at the Treasury, and had been here several times, about a week each time. He said he had been active in Republican politics in Kephart's home town for forty years. Frank Bolling, employed in the Auditor General's department, said Showers had been here several times, had spent much of his time in Bolling's company, but had never said he was a night watchman, but that he was "looking after some matters for Kephart."

R. J. McGrath, mediator for the Department of Labor and Industry, said he received $400 from Kephart "for doing nothing." He lived here for two months, under the impression he was working for Kephart personally, and expecting a State job promised by Kephart, but which he did not receive.

Confidential services of a nature which he refused to tell at first, were the cause of payment of $500 on two occasions by Kephart to John P. O'Donnell, according to O'Donnell's testimony. Checks and vouchers were shown to prove he had received the money. He refused to tell the nature of his service, until informed he could be sent to jail for his refusal. He then said he had been Kephart's private secretary and personal bodyguard at the Republican convention in Chicago in 1920, "when there was some talk of 'knocking off' prominent State officials."

After reading testimony like this can there be any doubt in the minds of the people of Pennsylvania that the proper thing to do would be to clean house on capitol hill at Harrisburg.

FARM TOPICS

Farm Accounts.

This is one season of the whole year when farmers are prone to neglect one of the most essential phases of their business, that of keeping proper records and accounts of the business up-to-the-minute. It is a busy time of the year and the average farmer when he is "busy" in an effort to lighten the burden, will drop those things that seem to him as the least important. The question is, whether or not farm accounts should come under this head? Surely one would not think of discontinuing milking the cows, the feeding of livestock, nor the harvesting of crops, and yet instances can be cited where accurate farm accounts have shown the farmer exactly how he has lost money on these same operations.

Farm accounts are and should be considered as inseparable from the successful management of a farm as any of the tasks mentioned. The accounts are the basis of all business management. Without them a study or analysis of the year's work is incomplete and uncertain. They offer the only means whereby leaks and losses can be found and checked. They often suggest methods of improving farm practices that will change a failing farm to a successful business enterprise. If the farmer would decide to give a certain amount of time each day to the recording of that day's transactions it would be no more necessary to neglect the profit-and-loss gauge of his business than it would to neglect the milking of the family cow.

Fertilizers.

Action recently taken by experiment station officials and representatives of the fertilizer trade in conference at Wilmington, Delaware, will interest every Adams county farmer who is concerned about the fertilizer price lists. For many years experiment station workers and extension specialists at the Pennsylvania State College have urged the farmers to purchase only high-grade fertilizers in view of the large amount of money wasted annually in the expenditure for low-grade mixtures containing varying amounts of fillers. At the Wilmington conference, the fertilizer men gave their approval to the teaching of these specialists, in promoting the use of high-grade fertilizers and fewer formulas. In the matter of a smaller number of formulae alone, it is obvious that the saving in manufacturing costs will effect an appreciable difference in the price the farmer has to pay.

Not all farmers, however, have learned to appreciate the value of using high-grade fertilizers. They will insist on buying a 2-8-2, for instance, in preference to a 3-12-3, because the price of the former is lower. The formula for both is identical. In the lower-grade, the purchaser simply pays for a greater amount of filler which increases the bulk of the mixture but does not add to its fertilizing properties. Two tons of the high grade fertilizer in this case will give the same results as three tons of the lower grade. When it is considered that the cost of mixing, bagging, handling, and transporting a ton of fertilizer is often as much as $14.00 in excess of the actual cost of the raw materials used, it is plain that the purchase of two tons of the high grade fertilizer, the 3-12-3, will effect a saving in cost that will be of greatest benefit to the farmer.

Poultry.

When the laying quarters are "cat boxes" instead of comfortable nests during the hot summer months there is something wrong with the ventilating system, according to L. W. Steelman, specialist in poultry extension work at the Pennsylvania State College. Heat in the summer is worse on a hen than the cold in the winter. It is not a rare sight to see hens overcome by heat in July and August. Broodiness, too, is more prevalent in stuffy quarters. Provide ventilators at the front

Small windows of six 8 in. x 10 in. panes, put in below the roof at the rear of the house, at intervals of ten feet, will also help greatly in correcting the stuffiness of the house. In the winter these under-roof windows supply additional light for scratching, and when removed in summer along with those in the front of the house, they insure plenty of open space, so that the air circulates freely and the temperature registers somewhat below normal.

HOW TO MAKE CIDER

UNCLE SAM HAS BOOKLET ON SUBJECT.

Apple Juice or Sweet Cider Should be the American Beverage the Year Round.

The United States Department of Agriculture, possessing figures which show that the manufacture of cider has increased considerably since prohibition has become effective in this country, has found it advisable to issue a 56-page pamphlet which tells all there is to know about making cider on the farms. Besides the directions for its manufacture, there is also contained in the booklet Federal regulations governing its manufacture and sale under the National Prohibition Act.

"Unfermented apple juice or sweet cider," writes Joseph S. Caldwell, Plant Physiologist of the department, "may justly be called the American beverage. It is more generally popular and is made and consumed in much larger quantities than any other beverage juice. As the making of cider is regarded by fruit growers as the surest means of securing an outlet for surplus fruit, it is a very widely distributed farm industry, the total production fluctuating greatly from year to year.

"On the farms in 1890 the production of cider was 55,280,199 gallons, with an additional 12,363,656 gallons converted into vinegar. In 1909, when the apple crop was a partial failure in many States, the production fell to 32,583,998 gallons, with 7,246,632 gallons of vinegar.

"While cider is in strong demand for use in the making of apple butter, jelly and various minor products, the chief purpose for which it is employed is as a beverage. There are few individuals to whom good cider does not appeal, and the fact that apples are so widely grown in the United States should make it possible for consumers to obtain supplies, irrespective of their location.

"Unfortunately this is not the case. Sweet cider is largely a seasonal product, made only during the period immediately following the apple harvest and usually consumed within a few days. After the close of the pressing season it disappears from the market and is practically unobtainable except for the small quantities sold by the glass through soda fountains and drug stores. As a consequence there is a large consumption of commercial grape juice and of synthetic soft drinks in apple-growing districts and even in the families of apple growers.

"The reason for this situation is that only comparatively few small-scale producers of apple juice practice the pasteurizing of their product so as to make it available for use in a sweet condition at any season of the year. Either through the ignorance of the methods to be employed in pasteurization or a misapprehension as to the difficulty and expense of the process large quantities of apple juice are yearly allowed to ferment and ultimately become vinegar, while its place as a beverage is taken by synthetic soft drinks of greater cost, lower food value and palatability, and often of doubtful character so far as their cleanliness and freedom from bacterial contamination are concerned.

Mr. Caldwell then follows with various methods of making the unfermented drink, starting with the selection of sound, properly ripened fruit and describing all the stages in its manufacture to labeling and packing. The handbook is Farmers' Bulletin 1,264.

Pennsylvania ranks first in the production of cider. Adams county could develop this business of cider making so as to make it a valuable asset.

Japanese Masks of Shame.
One of the most unusual features of a Japanese court to a stranger is the fact that each prisoner has his head covered by a wicker mask, more like an inverted wastebasket than anything else, the object of which is to prevent recognition of the prisoner, to permit him to hide his shame under the disguise and, very possibly, to prevent him from making a bolt for liberty.

The sight of a prisoner so arrayed is usually the most striking up the suggestion of the barbarian's cap.

Once in the prisoners' box, however, the masks are removed, while the prisoners sit with deeply bowed heads in an attitude of the utmost humility.—Poston Post.

RENEWED TESTIMONY.

No one in Gettysburg who suffers backache, headaches or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Gettysburg woman's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Gettysburg resident can doubt.

Mrs. D. F. Arendt, R. R. St., gave the following statement February 14, 1916: "Doan's Kidney Pills have always given me the most excellent results. I was suffering from backache and dizzy headaches and my kidneys were much too free in action. I felt all worn out in the morning. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I purchased some at the People's Drug Store and they gave me relief at once and have always given me such fine benefit that I keep them on hand to use in case of need."

On April 11, 1921, Mrs. Arendt said: "I don't have any kidney trouble at all any more and I attribute my cure to Doan's Kidney Pills. I think even more highly of Doan's than I did in 1916, because the cure they brought about has been a lasting one."
